Hodge is Sentenced 12 to 15 Years In Illinois Penitentiary at Menard

Ex-Auditor is Led Tearfully From Courtroom

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U.P.)—Ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge today was sentenced to serve 12 to 15 years in the Illinois Penitentiary at Menard for the theft of close to one million dollars from the state treasury.

The prosecution had asked that Hodge be imprisoned for the rest of his natural life, but defense attorney Arthur Fitzgerald had asked Circuit Judge Clem Smith to "give him justice."

Fitzgerald said "I am not asking for mercy. I am asking for justice."

Hodge had been charged on 46 indictments with embezzlement, forgery and operating a confidence game. He faced a possible 1 to 10 years on confidence game; 1 to 14 for forgery, and 1 to 15 for embezzlement on each count. He was also charged in two indictments with conspiracy to steal $637,000 cited in the state's case.

Smith sentenced Hodge to 1 to 10 years on one count of confidence game in each indictment. He sentenced him to 1 to 14 years for forgery on each of three counts in each of 46 indictments. He sentenced him to 12 to 15 years on each of two counts of embezzlement as a public official in each of 46 indictments.

On two indictments charging conspiracy, Hodge was sentenced to 1 to 5 years on each of 42 counts on one indictment and 1 to 5 years on each of 11 counts in the second indictment.

Hodge, standing to hear his sentence with his eyes closed, sagged as Smith pronounced sentence. Later he sat in a chair with tears in his eyes. He was led from the courtroom stumbling and tearful by two bailiffs.

The British actress joined her husband, Dennis Hamilton, in a wild, kicking, hitting attack on photographer Stewart Sawyer, 32, who they accused of pushing them and two others into a swimming pool.

Witnesses said Hamilton acted "like a tiger" as he knocked Sawyer to the ground and sat on him, beating his bloody face while Miss Dors screamed "unprintable words" and kicked at the photographer's head.

Illinois Delegation To Support Ike-Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—Illinois' delegation to the Republican National Convention will support an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, according to its chairman, Morton Hollingsworth.

The 60-member delegation never has formally adopted a pro-Nixon resolution, Hollingsworth said, but "our position has been quite widely known for some time—we're for Eisenhower and Nixon."

A United Press Survey shows only three delegates definitely opposed to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's renomination.

Louie Manley Arrested on Break-In Charges

Louie Manley of this city, charged with breaking into places where two women were sleeping Saturday, was held in the county jail after his arrest by Chief of Police Ross Lane and State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson said he was planning to file felony charges against him.

Manley, Lane said, gave himself up at the city hall, where Lane arrested him on the first of two incidents.

He said that he had a warrant for the man after a woman in the Blything Addition housing project charged that at 2 a. m. Saturday Manley tore off a screen downstairs and kicked out a window upstairs in trying to get to her. She said she jumped out of an upstairs window to get away. Lane said she was not injured.

Immediately after the arrest, Lane got a call from a white woman in East Harrisburg saying that Manley tore a window off while she was asleep and that he was standing over her when she awakened.

She made him leave, she stated.

His arrest was made on a complaint signed by Julius Steinmarch, executive director of the Saline County Housing authority, charging him with destruction of government property, but Wilson said he was planning to file additional charges involving breaking and entering places and with intent to commit rape.

Records in the circuit clerk's office show that a Louie Manley, then 24 years old, was found guilty in 1932 of assault to commit rape and was sentenced to a one to 14 year term in the state penitentiary.

GOP Platform Pledges Aid to Distress Areas

Campaign Policy Will Be Submitted to Convention Tuesday

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—Republican platform writers today pledged their party to "revise and improve" the Taft-Hartley labor law and to extend minimum wage coverage to many more workers.

The GOP convention's Resolutions Committee hewed out a labor plank that also advocated federal help for areas with chronic unemployment.

A tentative welfare plank pledged "extension and perfection of a sound social security system." It promised renewed efforts to get through Congress some such school building program as failed of passage this year.

The 106-member Resolutions Committee worked far into Sunday night in a drive to complete work on a 1956 campaign platform which will be submitted to the national convention Tuesday.

One major hurdle was cleared when the committee approved early today a compromise civil rights plank that both northern and southern delegates pronounced acceptable. Southern delegates had been fighting against a proposed plank which would have pledged the party to carry out the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools. Text of the compromise was not immediately made public, but southern members said it was a toned-down version they could live with politically.

Softened Closed Shop
The Republicans did not propose any increase in the minimum wage, which now is $1.00 an hour. In the platform adopted at their convention last week Democrats pledged to increase it to $1.25.

The recommended GOP labor plank proposed to "revise and improve the Taft-Hartley Act so as to protect more effectively the rights of labor unions, management and the public."

Cool Front Triggers Violent Storms; Eight Persons Killed

By United Press
Eight persons were killed when a row of violent storms ripped across Ohio and western Pennsylvania Sunday, leaving more than one-half million dollars of damage.

Two of the dead were counted at Sharon, Pa., where a tree toppled on the roof of a shelter housing 80 persons at a reunion party. Fifty-seven of the guests were treated for injuries.

Storms, triggered by an invading cool front, hit hardest in northern Ohio. Winds up to 75 miles per hour flattened power and telephone lines in the Cleveland area.

Emergency highway and utility crews were called out to clear roads strewn with debris and restore power and telephone service to stricken sections of the two states.

Ohio state police estimated damage in northern Ohio amounted to nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Dr. W. T. Johnson, 89, Eldorado, Physician for 62 Years, Dies

Dr. William T. Johnson, 89-year-old Eldorado physician who began his practice in 1894 at the village of Cottonwood in Gallatin county, died at 4:45 a. m. today in Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

Known as "Dr. Will" to distinguish him from his doctor-brother, "Dr. Frank," he had practiced in Eldorado for nearly 50 years.

After his practice in Cottonwood he spent nine years at Ridgway, then went to Eldorado where he spent the rest of his life.

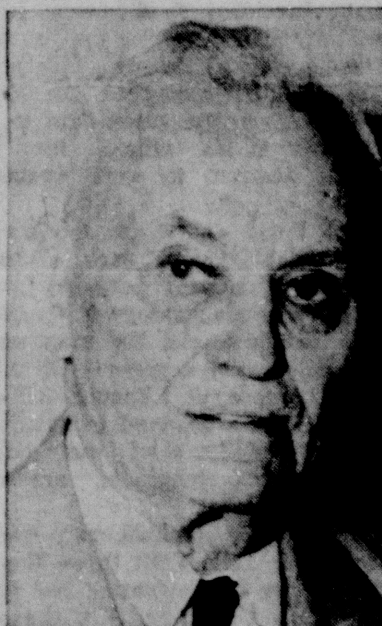

The well-known and well-loved physician leaves his wife, Kathryn; a son, Dr. William F. Johnson, well-known Eldorado dentist; a grandson, William T. Johnson II; and a brother, Dr. Frank Johnson. All reside in Eldorado. The brother is five years younger than Dr. Will and has retired from practice.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church in Eldorado. Rev. A. D. Clodfelter will officiate and burial will be in Oak Wood cemetery at Mt. Vernon. The body after 6 p. m. today will lie in state at the Eldorado funeral home.

Dr. Johnson was born in Mount Vernon, Ill., June 23, 1867, and attended the elementary schools there. Shurtleff college provided a two-year pre-medical course. Then he enrolled in the Missouri Medical college in St. Louis, graduating there in March, 1894.

Three years later he married Miss Norma Willis, a Gallatin county girl, who died only a few years later. In 1924 he and Mrs. Kathryn (Smith) Patterson were married.

He has been quite active in civic affairs, was a member of the Eldorado city council, and the high school board of education, and a member of the Methodist church where he had served on the board.

Dr. William T. Johnson
Dr. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson had lived for many years at 1805 Glenwood avenue.

Residents of Equality Warned To Boil Water

A warning to residents of Equality to boil their drinking water was issued today by R. E. Favreau, regional sanitary engineer of the State Department of Public Health, due to an emergency in the Equality municipal water supply system.

Mr. Favreau said the Egyptian Health Department likely would have more detailed instructions as soon as Dr. J. H. Wells, head of the department, returns to his office this afternoon.

The emergency is caused by lack of water in the drilled wells east of Equality on state Route 13. Supply of water in the drilled wells, an integral part of the Equality water system, has been diminishing the past two years, and is now so insufficient that pumping is not possible. Some water is still available from private wells, but few of them have been used recently and may be contaminated.

Suggested plans for a surface water supply or for extending the water line to an area to the east where wells may be drilled in a gravel bed, are scheduled for discussion at the Equality village board meeting tonight.

Stassen Drive Takes Beating After Beating

No Plan for Ike To Circulate List For Vice President

CONVENTION HALL, San Francisco (U.P.)—Republicans launched their campaign to re-elect President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon today with a television spectacular and a flood of oratory at San Francisco's mammoth Cow Palace.

The program said they were holding their 1956 national convention here this week to adopt a campaign platform and nominate candidates for president and vice president.

But all that was taken care of to all intents and purposes before today's opening session of the streamlined four-day meeting started with a bang of the gavel by GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

So all the Republicans had left to do—aside from going through the customary convention motions—was to kick off the 1956 election campaign.

Just for Practice
Harold E. Stassen kept on promoting his "dump-Nixon" drive and Nixon kept up a whirlwind courtship of delegates.

Both obviously were just working for practice. Nixon had practically all of the delegates on his side long before opening hour.

Stassen's hopes of getting Nixon off the ticket took beating after beating and had no more life in them by convention time than an axed ox.

The former Minnesota governor said rather wistfully that he hopes President Eisenhower will have a list with him when he arrives on the coast Tuesday of "acceptable" alternates to Nixon.

But members of the President's official family said such hopes were strictly fancy-made.

One high ranking White House staff member told the United Press that as of today there was no plan whatever for Mr. Eisenhower to circulate any such list.

Nixon Leads Survey
"We think this would be most unwise and have so recommended to the President," he said.

Another aide to the President said he does not expect Mr. Eisenhower to say or do anything new about the vice presidential nomination. Neither do the delegates.

Carnival Truck Overtakes

A carnival truck driver en route to Freeport, Ill., northwest of Chicago, wound up in Cave-In-Rock state park, where his truck jackknifed across the blacktop road early Sunday.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander said the truck, belonging to the Buff Hottie Shows, crossed into Illinois at Mt. Carmel after the show had been at Princeton, Ind., and turned south instead of north.

The driver went all the way to Cave-In-Rock, where he started up a steep incline on the state park road. His brakes went bad and the truck started back down the hill, jackknifed and turning over. The driver, whose name was not learned, was only slightly hurt.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Ye have need of patience, that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise. He-

Every great discovery is the result of patience. If a chemist must

For Safety's Sake

It is understandable that the Icelanders may be a bit tired of playing host to American soldiers.
Our troops have been there pretty continuously since 1940, when we first occupied the island as a protective measure.

But Iceland's argument that the present 150-million-dollar NATO base at Keflavik is no longer needed because of improvements in the world situation seems like a risky rationalization. As a matter of fact, NATO has formally rejected Iceland's plea for troop withdrawals based on this argument.

Things might be different if Iceland had its own armed forces to man such a base, but it does not. Without U. S. soldiers the strategic steppingstone for our intermediate bombers would be defenseless.

Iceland says it wants to stay in NATO. That being so, the only real contribution it can make to Western defense is to swallow its distaste for foreign soldiers on its soil and continue to let us operate the vital Keflavik bastion.

"They Don't Hardly Make 'Em That Open Any More"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Ike's Feelings On Nixon Major
Question Mark; History Repeats On Vice President Issue; Stassen Out On Limb Despite Silent Support.

SAN FRANCISCO. — Biggest
question mark in the mind of every delegate attending this otherwise carefully calculated gathering the GOP clan is whether the older man who is to be nominated by acclamation does or does not want the young man from California as his running-mate again.

They are puzzled by the fact that President Eisenhower has praised Nixon yet at the same time never definitely endorsed him, that he seems to like him yet has given the green light to a member of his official family, Harold Stassen, to work against him.

The broad answer to the mystery probably goes back to the general similarity between the public relations strategy of Dwight D. Eisenhower and the man who first made him a general, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Though different in their goals and in making international decisions, their public relations techniques are almost identical.

When the Republicans were meeting in 1940, FDR threw them into a tizzy by appointing two top Republicans, Henry L. Stimson
as secretary of war and Frank Knox as secretary of the navy. It took the publicity spotlight away from the GOP. When the Democrats were meeting in Chicago last week, Eisenhower did somewhat the same thing, by hauling the Democratic leaders back to Washington to confer over Stassen.

And like FDR, Ike doesn't like to fire a man who has been loyal.
Take the case of Henry Wallace and the way he was eased out as vice-president. His situation was almost identical with that of Richard Nixon, with one important exception, namely the party bosses were against Wallace. The party bosses are behind Nixon.

HISTORY REPEATS

In both cases, however, it was known that with an again unrobust president re-elected, the chances were strong that the vice-president would end up as president.
It was also feared by those around Roosevelt—as today with Nixon—that Henry Wallace would be a drag on the ticket.

Roosevelt, however, didn't want to tell him this, just as Ike hasn't wanted to tell Nixon. He delegated the job to two members of his official family—Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Judge Sam Rosenman, the same Rosenman who was brainstraining for Averell Harriman in Chicago last week.

They figured that Wallace, who once remarked, "I'd like to sit under a tree and study philosophy," would be easy to pry out of the vice-presidency, but when they went to see him, Wallace was irked, and like Nixon, said he would not retire unless FDR himself wanted him to.

He went to see Roosevelt himself; Wallace had been completely loyal to Roosevelt. Unlike Jack Garner, he had never undercut the President's program on Capitol Hill. And like Nixon, he had made speech after speech some-of them disagreeable subjects that the President himself didn't want to make, supporting the administration.

Yet FDR knew he would be a drag on the ticket. He knew this, but because of Wallace's loyalty, he didn't want to ask him to step aside. Finally, when Wallace himself brought the matter up, Roosevelt gave him an answer almost identical with Ike Eisenhower's advice to Nixon "to chart his own course."

"If this were a peacetime election, I'd insist on your being with me," he said. "But I'm a war president and I can't do that now.
However, I'll do anything you think will help."

And he suggested that he call up some of the party leaders to rally support for Wallace's re-nomination. Wallace, however, asked Roosevelt to issue a statement of support. But just as Eisenhower has ducked giving Nixon a personal statement, so FDR ducked on Wallace.

The most he gave him was a statement that "if I were a delegate from New York I would vote for Henry Wallace." But at the same time he said this, he also gave a letter to Democratic Chairman Bob Hannegan stating his preference for Harry Truman and Justice William O. Douglas.

STASSEN ON LIMB

The nearest Eisenhower has come to supporting Nixon was a statement by Jim Hagerty, that the President was "delighted" Nixon had charted his own course and decided to run again. But he did not pose for a photo with Nixon, as is customary on an occasion of this importance, and he did not make the statement himself.

The occasion of the Hagerty statement was after Nixon hurriedly went to see Eisenhower after the learned that his campaign manager and close friend, Murray Chotiner, could not escape appearing before a Senate investigating committee where facts would come out sure to hurt
Nixon's political standing.

When he went to the White House, Nixon took with him, as did Henry Wallace, a list of state chairmen who supported him. It impressed Eisenhower who, though he's become astute at national politics, does not understand state and local politics. Wallace's list did not impress Roosevelt. He knew politics from the grass roots up, and he knew that the political bosses were down on Henry.

It's the support of the party bosses, however, especially the Taft wing of the party which is Nixon's only real asset. If Chairman Len Hall was not vigorously behind him, he would have been overboard long ago.

For the real fact is that some of the men closest to Ike are decidedly down on Nixon. Sherman Adams, the real powerhouse at the White House, scarcely speaks to him. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, considers him a dangerous drag on the ticket.
They are the Harold Ickes and the Sam Rosenmans of Eisenhower's administration and they are the backstage figures who helped inspire Harold Stassen's dump Dick movement.

There is a lot of silent support for Stassen. But the vigor with which Len Hall moved in to stop Stassen and the abject manner in which Governor Herter folded in the face of the old guard opposition has left the boy, Harold pretty much out on a limb. The only thing that can rescue him is definite word from Ike. And when it comes to dumping a man who has been loyal to him, Ike just doesn't like to be definite.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

UPHOLSTERY tacks are strange items to make a person think about God. Some people seldom think about God even when they go to church. Circumstances and conditions determine attitudes and the way folk think.

The little upholstery tack was made to hold the upholstery in place. It was designed as an item of beauty as well as one of permanence. One sees only the head of the tack, but one knows that imbedded in the wood of the framework of the chair is a nail with a very sharp point. The sharp point penetrates the wood and the length of the nail holds it firmly in place.

Occasionally a tack becomes loose and finds its way onto the seat of the chair. We sit on the nail and we jump because our skin has been penetrated. We are very uncomfortable. We hastily remove the cause of the pain and are then more cautious where and how we sit.

The upholstery tack is very much like our consciences. We take our conscience for granted for Lausche; former U. S. Sen.

Scott W. Lucas Havana, cast a district vote for Symington; and Chicago Delegate John Boyle
voted for Douglas.

The 8 1/2 votes for Harriman were cast by: State Rep. Paul Powell, Vienna, delegate-at-large —1 1/2 vote; and one full vote by the following district delegates:
Joseph Heckenkamp, Quincy, D.
M. Madigan, Penfield; John R.
Henson, Villa Grove; Leroy Bar-ham, Harrisburg; Gordon Franklin, Marion; Howard Beene, Peoria; Conrad Wirth, Joliet; and Henry F. McCarthy, Joliet. The total vote of 11 1/2 fell short of anti-Stevensonite claims they had 18 votes.

Among votes which failed to materialize in support of candidates other than Stevenson were those by Henry S. Wise, Danville; Edward Laroque, Kankakee; Chicago City Treasurer Morris B.
Sachs 1-2 vote; Hugh V. Murray, Jr., Centralia, Stelle's fellow district delegate; Joseph E.
Knight, Dow, 1-2 vote; and Peter P. Kezon, Chicago—1-2 vote. Heckenkamp's vote for Harriman was cast by Lucas who held Heckenkamp's proxy.

The Illinois caucus was held at the Founder's Room of the Saddle and Siroin Club in the Stockyard Inn. Mayor Richard J. Daley,

chairman of the delegation, presided. It was scheduled for 9:30
a. m., Thursday, but was later getting started because of a prolonged session Wednesday night over the civil rights plank in the party's national platform. Delegates were kept on the convention floor until an early hour Thursday.

Temper rose in the delegation over the voting for president. Lucas, thumping Chicago Leader Albert J. Horan and long a hunting companion of Lucas, said: "You know as well as I do, Al Horan, that Stevenson would be a drag on the (state) ticket." Horan retorted: "Well maybe so, Scott, but the Democrat organization in Cook county has grown great because we have followed our county chairman (Mayor Daley)."

Horan then went on to say that "Mister Daley has said we will vote for Mr. Stevenson. So we'll vote for Mr. Stevenson. We belong to an organization. We are an organization people. Incidentally the organization did pretty well by you. It elected you U. S. senator twice. You owe it something." Lucas stomped away but later Horan said "that doesn't mean Scott and I have broken.
We hunted ducks together too many years to split a good friend.
ship."

One of the reasons demonstrations for some presidential candidates at the Democrat national convention were short-lived was because Mayor Daley's city police had instructions to keep them that way. It went so far that a hand which was to have been in the Harriman demonstration was corralled in a convention room. There were no limitations on the length of the Stevenson demonstration. It pretty well ran its full course.

Lucas, in voting for Symington, told the caucus he was doing so because of his long association with him in the U. S. Senate.
Stelle said he voted for Lausche because he "is an old friend and we kidded each other the other day so I thought I would give him a vote for President." Powell said "I voted for Harriman because he's the man Truman wanted." Germano, CIO leader, said he had such a high regard for Daley "I'll let Dick cast my vote."

Daley cast Germano's vote for Stevenson. The CIO chieftain had planned to vote for Harriman but said "Chicago has been so good to me all my life and I have received so many kindnesses from Chicago Democrats that I'll just let Dick cast my vote the way he wants to cast it." The caucus was a closed session with uniformed police and plain clothesmen on guard at the room's two entrances to keep newspapermen, television and radio away.

Political observers attending the Illinois State Fair at Springfield, where he was afforded a preview of the billboard advertisement which Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline, will use in the coming election campaign. It is described as being one of the most

"non-political" ads in recent campaign history.

Instead of featuring a picture
—as most campaign plugs do—it shows two children on the way to school and carries a headline plea
—"Keep Highway-Safety First."
It grows out of what supporters of Secretary Carpenter says is his "forthright administration of the state driver license law" which Carpenter drafted and pushed through the 1953 Illinois General Assembly.

A participant in the Stevenson demonstration was State Rep. Paul Simon, Troy. Simon, not yet 30, got into the convention wearing a convention messenger badge.
When the Stevenson demonstration got under way, he picked up a
"Stevenson" sign and marched onto the convention floor. In between times seeing the convention he worked at Stevenson convention headquarters. Near the convention end he was using a delegate badge, loaned to him by State Rep. Richard Stengel.

DOWNSTATE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE:

Bass Fishing Still 'Slow', But Activity Begins to Pick Up

By PETE BROWN
(From reports compiled by the Southern Illinois Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation)

Perceptible twitchings of bass have fanned the eternal fires of hope in the area's long suffering fishermen. Although bass fishing can best be termed "slow," the fish are starting to bump a variety of plugs.

At Little Grassy Lake, where nothing much has happened bass-wise for the past month, activity is picking up. Cecil Clark of McLeansboro garnered the limit using a black Creme Wiggle lure—the large plastic artificial worm with three separate hooks and a spinner—his largest going an ounce or so under seven pounds. George Bates, East St. Louis, boated two four-pounders trolling a Bomber. Surface baits, specifically the Hula Popper, are more in evidence now. The only name available, although several catches on poppers have been reported at Grassy, is that of Bob Kelly, Cobden; who caught two.

A Crab Orchard Lake fan, Harry Wright of Carbondale, testifies to increased bass movement on the big pond. He used a Shannon Twin Spinner (one of the best weedless bass lures, by the way) to land three, including a four and a five pounder.

Biggest Bass Catches
Small crappie and bluegill are still providing the bulk of the action at Little Grassy. Crappie fishing at Crab Orchard remains poor. Bluegill, redear and channel cat catches have been good at Lake Murphysboro. Two minnow anglers at Horseshoe Lake came home with five crappie, one channel cat, one largemouth and one drum after five and one-half hours of concentrated effort. Crappie fishing in general is only fair.

The biggest bass catches this year in the Centralia area were rung up by Lawrence Kuester, Centralia, and Carl Flanagan, Odin, whose fish went 6-10 and 6-8 respectively. Both men were using Hula Poppers at Royal Lakes, two reservoirs between Centralia and Salem which are owned by a Chicago development firm.

Stocked many years ago, the two large ponds were bought after the original owner's death by the Royal Lake Development Company. Although the lunkers pulled in by Kuester and Flanagan topped anything yet submitted for the "Centralia Evening Sentinel's" summer-long fishing derby, the catches were not accepted because of the pond's commercial status. The two men sought to enter their bass on grounds that no one had tapped them for the customary 50-cent fee at Royal Lakes.

Leader in the Centralia derby is Frank Korzenewski, Glenridge, whose four pounder is Raccoon Lake's biggest contribution to the local fishing scene in an otherwise slow season. Korzenewski, too, was using a casting-size Hula Popper.

Texas Oil Company work crews are completing an all-out mop-up operation on Lake Centralia where a gathering line for their water flood project broke recently, filling the lake with oil scum. Shoreline waters were covered with oil and area fishermen, who have been having it tough enough, were fearful the accident would cancel out everything for the rest of the year.

The Texas Company took immediate steps to remedy the sloppy situation, screening off the oil, dragging the entire lake with straw, and cleaning up in general. At last reports the crews were preparing to scour all the boats affected. Amazingly enough, no significant fish-kill was reported.

Legion Splits With Evansville

The Harrisburg Legion baseball team split a pair of games with the Evansville Tigers over the week end, winning at the local VFW park Saturday night, 15-13, and losing when it traveled to Evansville Sunday, 14-5.

The Legion outslugged Evansville Saturday night in a game that saw the lead change hands several times, the locals finally winning, 15-13. Dallas hit a long home run in this game; Dailey slashed a triple and Mills lined two doubles to round out the extra-base hitting for the locals. Bob Roper, Tom Hamilton and Don Wallace took turns on the mound for Harrisburg, with Bill McNew doing the receiving. Jackson and Wilson led the visitors' 12-hit attack with three safeties apiece. Young and Epton combined on the mound for the losers.

In Sunday's game the Legion had a 5-4 lead going into the seventh inning when Evansville broke loose with five runs on five hits. Evansville added five more runs in the eighth for its final tallies. Miller, McNew, Mills and Ziegler hurled for the Legion and Logsdon did the catching. Threet led the locals at bat with a triple and a single. Chambers and Lacrone were the pitchers and stopped the Legion.

The total hits for Legion players over the week end were as follows: Mills 4, Ziegler 3, McNew 3, Dallas 3, Stout 2, Logsdon 2, Threet 2, Dailey 1, and Hamilton 1.

Next Saturday night the Legion will play a return game with Norris City. The first game between these teams ended in a 7-7 tie. Sunday the locals will travel to Gallatin, Tenn., for a game with the Gallatin Travelers.

Spahn Defeats Reds, 8-1, For 14th Victory; Cardinals Split With Cubs; Dodgers Win

By United Press
Warren Spahn has turned back the clock eight years in an effort to pitch the Milwaukee Braves to their first pennant.

Back in 1948, Spahn joined with Johnny Sain to hurl the Braves into the World Series and today he is collaborating with another right-hander, Lew Burdette, in another hectic race. He has scored four of the Braves' last nine victories and Sunday came through with an eight-hitter to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 3-1, and drop them into third place.

Burdette, who tries for his 16th win in the final game of the four-game series tonight, is the only other Milwaukee pitcher who has been consistently effective this month. Neither Bob Buhl nor Ray Crone has won a game since July 30 and Gene Conley has notched just one triumph this month.

Spahn throttled the Cincinnati sluggers who wallowed eight homers Saturday night to gain his 14th win of the season and the 197th of his career when Hank Aaron tagged relief pitcher Tom Aker for a two-run homer in the eighth inning.

Dodgers Two Games Out
The world champion Brooklyn Dodgers replaced the Redlegs in second place, two games off the pace, when they defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2, on pinch-hitter Charlie Neill's two-run ninth-inning double. Don Newcombe became the first major league pitcher to notch his 19th win although Clem Labine finished up.

Jim Davis and Turk Lown combined in a seven-hitter to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-1 win after the St. Louis Cardinals won the opener, 6-0, behind Murry Dickson's two-hitter. The 41-year-old Dickson collected three hits, including a triple, and knocked in two runs in the opener.

The New York Giants smashed six homers in beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-6 and 3-3. Darryl Spencer homered in each game and Johnny Antonelli, who won his 12th decision in the nightcap, also contributed a homer.

Mantle Goes Hides
Connie Johnson pitched a five-hitter and held Mickey Mantle hitless in four trips as the Baltimore Orioles beat the American League leading New York Yankees, 3-2. Billy Gardner's two-run, seventh-inning single put the Orioles

'500' Winner Is Injured in State Fair Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Doctors today prepared to take X-rays of injuries suffered by Pat Flaherty, winner of this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race, at the Illinois State Fair.

Flaherty was taken off the critical list Sunday although his physician, Dr. Fenton Drake, said the two-car wreck in which Flaherty was involved Saturday may mean the end of his racing career.

Drake said the driver's injuries included a compound fracture of the left forearm, fractured and dislocated left shoulder, compound fracture of the lower jaw, multiple face cuts, possible skull fracture and possible fractures of other facial bones.

The X-rays were planned today in an attempt to learn the full extent of the 30-year-old racer's injuries.

Flaherty hung near death for a time Saturday shortly after his car spun on the track and was rammed by another racer driven by Jack Turner, Seattle, Wash.

Flaherty's car flipped over and pinned its driver beneath the wreckage. Turner escaped injury when his car hurtled the overturned car. The accident occurred during the 28th lap of a 100-mile race.

Scott Home from Demo Convention

Former County Judge Don Scott returned Saturday night from Chicago where he spent all of last week attending the Democratic National Nominating Convention. Judge Scott was allied with the Stevenson forces and assisted in securing the presidential nomination for former Illinois Governor Adlai E. Stevenson.

Scott was also favorable to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee for the vice presidential nomination. Ivan A. Elliott, prominent Democrat of Carmi and former Attorney General of Illinois, was active in the successful fight to get the nominations for Stevenson and Kefauver. Elliott was a delegate-at-large to the convention in Chicago.

Family of Five Die in Auto Crash

CAMDEN, S. C. (UP)—A family of five from North Olmstead, Ohio, died when their automobile smashed into a bridge abutment Sunday and burst into flames.

Police identified the dead as Robert Gray, his wife, Betty, and their three children Sue, 6; Gary, 8; and Douglas, 13; all of North Olmstead.

The state highway patrol said Mrs. Gray, driving at the time, apparently fell asleep. She was thrown clear of the car, patrolmen said, but the others died in the wreckage. A passing motorist found them after the fire burned itself out.

Patrolmen learned after tracing the license plates that the family was traveling to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., to visit Mrs. Gray's mother.

Channel 7, Evansville, To Begin Telecasting On Limited Basis

Channel 7 at Evansville will start telecasting on a limited basis tomorrow, the Evansville Courier-Press announced yesterday.

A temporary antenna tower has been set up and two feature films will be shown daily at the outset, it was stated.

With temporary facilities, it was not known just how far the station would carry at the outset.

The announcement said the limited schedule would be carried until an ABC network line is installed. Studios are in the former Funkhouser Legion Post auditorium, 405 Carpenter street. The temporary tower is on Harmony Way.

The station will construct a new tower in the future, at a different location, it was announced.

GOP Conventions Opens To Name Ike, Nixon

all but a handful of whom are firmly for Nixon.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland confirmed this. He said he has been looking around but has yet to find "anyone knowledgeable" who believes Stassen's dump-Nixon campaign has made even the slightest dent on the vice president's strength.

A United Press survey of state delegations gave Nixon a first ballot strength of at least 1,156 out of a possible 1,323 votes.

The only other dispute which threatened the serenity of this convention was settled early today when the Platform Committee approved a compromise civil rights plank.

The convention will act on the platform Tuesday. Formal selection of the ticket, which could be by acclamation, is set for Wednesday. The nominees will deliver acceptance speeches Thursday evening.

Today's emphasis was strongly on the one contest the Republicans are really worried about—for control of Congress.

A Confident Mood

Sen. Andrew Schoepel of Kansas and Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, the chairmen respectively of the GOP Senate and House campaign committees, led a "panel discussions" in which a dozen lawmakers elaborated on the basic theme that a Republican presidential needs a Republican Congress to put over his program.

Hall, in a welcoming address prepared for delivery at the evening session, starting at 5 p. m. CST summed up the confident mood of the convention about the presidential race.

Hall took delight in agreeing with former President Harry S. Truman's prediction at the Democratic convention last week that Adlai E. Stevenson "can't win."

"There is nothing that we need say about the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket that Harry Truman hasn't already said," Hall told the delegates.

Hall said he rarely agreed with Mr. Truman but has found himself in full accord with the former President in one respect. He then quoted Mr. Truman as saying "Adlai will compromise on fundamental issues" and "Stevenson can't win and he can't carry a single state other than those he carried in 1952."

California Governor Goodwin J. Knight also welcomed the delegates. Knowland, the temporary convention chairman, and Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, the keynoteur, will speak tonight.

Speakers at the opening session sounded what promised to become the convention's recurring theme: That President Eisenhower's Republican administration had restored peace, fostered prosperity, and rebuilt moral fibre in government.

Host Governor Knight said Mr. Eisenhower had succeeded because he practiced the principle that "good government is the best politics, and that narrow selfish partisanship can never substitute for ceaseless attention to the welfare of all of the people."

"Our President has provided our country with a new vital and vibrant ingredient to guide us in the conduct of our own domestic affairs and in our relations with other segments of mankind," Knight said. "This added element may be termed 'the political humanities.' It is a new dimension designed to serve the cause of good will among men."

Cites Restoration of Peace

Knight said that in restoring peace in Korea Mr. Eisenhower relit lights that had gone out around the world with the start of World War I almost 40 years before. He said the President's forthright actions in Korea and elsewhere demonstrate "that he intends to keep the lamps of the world alight, and to promote freedom for all the nations of the earth."

No man is better equipped for this job, Knight asserted.

Charles K. McWhorter, chairman of the Young Republican Federation, told the delegates young Americans more and more are voting Republican. He said they voted for President Eisenhower in unprecedented numbers in 1952. He predicted an even heavier turnout of young Republican voters in 1956.

"Since 1952, over 8,000,000 young Americans have come of voting age," McWhorter asserted. "They are aware that the leadership and policies of this Republican administration have given the nation both peace and prosperity. They can remember the corruption, the low moral tone, the war, the inflation and the high-tax policies of the Truman regime. They do not want to go back."

Mrs. Carroll D. Kearns, president of the National Federation of Republican Women, said Republican strength stems from a determination in every American home to maintain moral security and material well being.

"As never before in its history," said Mrs. Kearns, wife of a Republican House member from Pennsylvania, "the Republican Party in 1956 is the political force of Americans who want to express their Americanisms at the polls on election day."

The delegates were welcomed by San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, who said the energy and courage that built America assure "even greater eras of national progress" in the future.

Accidental Death Ruled at Freddie Inquest

A misunderstanding over what was said in a conversation in Curve Inn south of Goreville the night of Aug. 10 resulted in the ride that took the lives of Sgt. George K. Freddie, Harrisburg recruiting officer, and Wayne Lewis Cox, Grantsburg, Coroner Adolph Fluck of Williamson county said following the inquest at Marion Friday night.

Coroner Fluck quoted testimony as stating Freddie entered the place in time to hear Cox talking about a 150-mile trip he was going to make to Scott Air Force base, and Freddie thought he heard him say he had a car that would go 150 miles an hour.

Freddie offered to "drag race" with Cox and Cox declined, saying he had no such car, witnesses said, adding that Cox and two others accepted to take a ride in Freddie's auto.

At the automobile Asa Mitchell, Harrisburg, was asleep in the back seat; so only Cox got in with Freddie. A few minutes later there was the report of the crash.

Mitchell, it was learned, was discharged from Marion Memorial hospital last Tuesday.

The jury's verdict into the death of Freddie was accidental death. Freddie's inquest was held at Marion because he died in Williamson county, two days after the crash. Cox was killed instantly at the scene of the crash in Johnson county and his inquest was held at Vienna.

GOP Platform Pledges Aid to Distress Areas

ment, the individual worker and the public." This would be effected by amendments recommended previously by the President, a softening of the law's closed shop provision.

The plank pointed with pride to the relatively short duration of the steel strike this year, "in contrast to the six months' upheaval, presidential seizure of the steel industry and ultimate Supreme Court intervention" under the Truman administration.

"The process of free collective bargaining has been strengthened by the insistence of this administration that labor and management settle their differences at the bargaining table without the intervention of the government," the plank said.

The Republicans said labor has never had it so good as during the last four years.

"The Eisenhower administration has brought to our people the highest employment, the highest wages and the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any nation," the platform proposal said.

Extend Social Security

The welfare plank urged "re-insurance and pooling arrangements" to speed expansion of voluntary health insurance.

"We shall continue to seek extension and perfection of a sound social security system," it said.

A foreign policy plank, made public Sunday, was pitched on a peace theme. It said the threat of global war "has receded," and the Red advance "has been checked, and at key points, thrown back."

Mr. Eisenhower did much to ease cold war tension with Russia and lessen the danger of a third world war at the 1955 Geneva meeting, the plank said.

Preservation of Israel as an independent Jewish state was put forward as "an important tenet of American foreign policy." Support of Israel against armed aggression was pledged. But the Republicans did not promise arms shipments for Israel, as the Democrats did in Chicago last week.

Reduce Trade Barriers

Continued support was pledged to the United Nations and for collective security pacts such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The plank promised that Republicans "shall continue to seek" reunification of Germany and liberation of the Western European countries enslaved by Russia behind the Iron Curtain.

Reduction of world trade barriers "on a gradual, selective and reciprocal basis" was pledged—but "with full recognition of the necessity to safeguard" domestic agriculture, industry and labor "against unfair import competition."

The plank also pledged continuance of economic and military aid to friendly countries, and "progressive elimination" of international barriers to "the free flow of news, information and ideas."

Continuance of "bipartisan development of foreign policies" also was promised.

The plank opposed admission of Red China to the United Nations and "any trade with the Communist world that would threaten the security of the United States and our Allies."
